Delaware County Health Department Announces Free Fall Flu Vaccination Clinics

The Delaware County Health Department (DCHD) is pleased to announce its fall influenza vaccination clinics, designed to protect the community from seasonal respiratory illness. DCHD will hold five special-event clinics, including one drive-through clinic, and support two additional community clinics throughout late September and October. The department will also continue its standing immunization clinic hours at its Wellness Centers in Chester and Yeadon. Through these offerings, DCHD is working to make flu vaccination as convenient and accessible as possible before the winter months.

“As we head into flu season, now is the time to get vaccinated,” said Lora Siegmann Werner, MPH, Director of the Delaware County Health Department. “The flu can be serious, but vaccination is a safe and effective way to reduce the risk of severe illness. I also want to remind all Delaware County residents that we have free respiratory testing resources (rapid home tests and laboratory tests) for flu, COVID-19, and RSV available at DCHD’s five Test and Go public health kiosks located throughout the county.”

Seasonal flu vaccination is recommended for everyone six months and older and can reduce the risk of flu-related illness, hospitalization and death. Vaccination is especially important for older adults, young children and people with chronic health conditions.

Free Special-Event Flu Clinics (All Clinics are Subject to Vaccine Availability)

These are open to Delaware County residents ages 3 and older. No appointment or insurance is required. Residents are encouraged to wear short sleeves so vaccinations can be administered easily.
